Contributions for Memorial to Washington's Best Elephant Begin Pouring In.

PAY TRIBUTE IN LETTERS

Children Express Affection for Zoo Favorite As Body Is Interred on Potomac.

There isn't any doubt that Dunk was the most beloved of all the animals at the Zoo. There isn't any doubt that the children of Washington were saddened by his death yesterday morning. And, furthermore, there isn't any doubt that the little folks are going to see that good old Dunk has a proper and worthy memorial erected to his memory.

Yesterday afternoon The Times printed the following message addressed to the little friends of the great elephant.

MEMORIAL TO DUNK?

To the Children of Washington

Our greatest pet is dead, Dunk, the very best elephant that ever lived, passed away this morning. Don't you think that we ought to pay some tribute to our friend? How would it do for each of us to give five cents, the price of a bag of his peanuts, to buy a memorial, perhaps a bronze tablet that shall tell how much we thought of him?

As soon as you have read this write a little letter to The Times and tell us what you think about it and if you want to you can send a nickel at the same time.

THE TIMES.

This morning The Times began to get responses to that letter, and the grief of the little folks was plainly written in the letters they sent. Of course, the question of the form that the memorial to Dunk is to take can only be decided when it is known how many nickels are available for its purchase, but The Times is sure that no little friend of the big pet will want anything but the best possible sort of a memorial to keep green recollections of the best elephant that ever lived in Washington.

Most of all, however, The Times values the letters that are coming in, and awaits each mail to add its quota to the tributes to the lost friend.

Some of the letters received this morning were as follows:

To the Editor of The Times:

As Dunk was an old friend of mine I am sending 10 cents to help pay for a monument or tablet to his memory. I enjoyed feeding him peanuts when I used to go to the Zoo and wish to congratulate The Times in giving space to such news, which is really interesting even in this "war crazed" period.

GILBERT PATCHETT.

To the Editor of The Times:

I am a little boy five years old and will miss poor old Dunk very much. Don't you think that the very best memorial to him would be a living memorial, purchased for our zoo by the children of Washington? Of course, another elephant won't be our old Dunk, but we could name him Dunk II, and I think that it would be

DR. HUNT'S WIDOW SUES

Declares His Death in Line of Duty
Makes Accident Insurance Payable

Recalling the heroic death of Dr. Arthur L. Hunt, of the District Health Department, who died of infantile paralysis contracted while fighting the scourge during the epidemic of last summer, Mrs. Marie Hunt, his widow, today instituted suit in the District Supreme Court to recover $7,575 on an insurance policy from the General Accident, Fire and Life Insurance Corporation, of Perth, Scotland. Dr. Hunt died in October last.

Mrs. Hunt contends in her declaration that her husband's death was due to accident, and that therefore the corporation should pay her the policy taken out by Dr. Hunt in the event of his death by accident. Attorneys Frederick A. Penning and W. Gwynn Gardner appear as attorneys for the plaintiff.

COMES BACK TO LIFE

Musician, Supposedly Dead, Makes Reappearance By Proxy.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., March 31.—John Miller, former Philadelphia musical marvel, who disappeared in November, 1913, and was believed to have been drowned a year later, has come back from the dead.

He made his reappearance by proxy and sent word to his relatives that he was alive and well and willing to sign the papers that would clear up his mother's estate, but he did not want to see any of them again.

"Miller asks that the necessary papers be left where he can see them and leave again," said Louis Harris, supervisor of the county board, who represents him.

GERMANY TAKES UP DEMOCRACY PLAN

AMSTERDAM, March 31.—Demand for democratization of Germany has reached the Reichstag, and the Reichstag has responded to a move for investigation of the relation of that body to the people, and the people's share in government.

Dispatches from Berlin today told of the adoption by a vote of 227 to 33 of a resolution fostered by the National Liberal members proposing a commission of twenty-eight "to consider constitutional questions, especially the representation of the people and the relation of the people to the government."

The Reichstag then adjourned until April 29.

DEMOCRATS NEARER CONTROL OF HOUSE

Congressman Helgesen's Illness
Practically Puts G. O. P.
Out of Running.

Republican Floor Leader Mann will be the Republican nominee for Speaker of the House, Congressman Madden of Illinois, chairman of the Republican steering committee, stated shortly after a committee meeting today.

Democratic organization of the House of Representatives on Monday became virtually assured today, when the Republicans lost another vote by illness. Congressman Henry T. Helgesen of North Dakota was stricken last night with appendicitis and operated on at Garfield Hospital in this city. His condition today was said to be favorable, but it will be impossible for Mr. Helgesen to attend the opening session of the House.

News of Mr. Helgesen's sudden illness caused gloom in Republican circles. It reached the Capitol shortly before noon, as the "committee of 27," appointed by the Republican caucus to frame an organization program, met for a final conference in advance of the Republican caucus this afternoon. The illness of Congressman Helgesen and Capstick of New Jersey, who telegraphed yesterday he could not attend the Monday session, was not the only trouble besetting the Republican party in the House today. Congressman-elect O. D. Bleakley, Republican of Pennsylvania, was indicted by a grand jury at Erie on a charge of violating the law prohibiting a Congressional candidate from spending more than $5,000 to promote his election.

Holds Election Certificate.

Mr. Bleakley entered a plea of nolo contendere before the Federal judge for the Erie district last night. Republican leaders here are undecided as to whether Mr. Bleakley will be present on Monday or whether he will desire to vote in the House organization if present.

Mr. Bleakley holds a certificate of election. Strictly speaking, that entitles him to vote on the House organization if he chooses. There is a possibility of a Democratic challenge, but challenges are seldom made because the House has a habit of recognizing election certificates and later taking up qualifications for the seat assigned.

However, it was suggested in certain quarters today that Mr. Bleakley may not care to vote until the Pennsylvania courts shall have done with his case. It might be bad politics for the Republicans to rely on the vote of a member under indictment, especially when the House is so evenly divided.

Republicans At Disadvantage.

This situation and the critical illness of Congressman Helgesen and Capstick put the House Republicans at a decided disadvantage today. Democratic leaders say that all Democrats will be present on Monday. Congressman Gordon Lee, who is convalescing, will be present.

GARIBALDI OFFERS AID

70-Year-Old Veteran Willing to Serve America.

ROME, March 31.—General Garibaldi, son of Italy's liberator, wants to aid the United States against Germany "anywhere in Europe." Though seventy years of age and forced to use a crutch, Garibaldi's fire is undiminished. He has cabled to President Wilson formally offering his services to America.

Today through American Ambassador Page the general received the President's formal thanks for his offer.

GURU PEEVED; SEANCE LIVELY

Dr. Sarak Tells Wonder Tale
at Esoteric Center Meeting.

INVITES GUEST TO DEPART

No Place for Sceptics, If They Are Given to Expressing Views.

By ROBERT BASTIEN BERMANN.

This is a "close up" of Dr. Sarak, esoteric leader, mystic, and guru to Boudh Sadou, adept of the Initiates of Thebes.

Picture two parlors of the "front and back" variety of twenty years ago.

Furnish them with nondescript rugs and tapestries and furniture described in advance as luxurious, but really of the sort generally found in second-class rooming houses.

Put into them a heterogeneous assemblage of some twenty persons, ranging from a couple of rather overgrown but entirely healthy boys to middle-aged and eminently respectable ladies.

And there you have the stage setting for the debut in Washington of Boudh Sadou, some time hailed as the new Messiah, and Dr. A. C. Sarak, his "guru," as presented last night at 1431 Rhode Island avenue under the auspices of the Oriental Esoteric Center.

Honor Guest Runs Away.

The affair was advertised (privately) as a "little soiree in honor of the supreme grand commander of the Scottish Rite," but, unfortunately, for some reason or other, the gentleman introduced as Mr. Moore, the grand commander, quit the meeting rather precipitately.

As a matter of fact, some others also took their leave quite suddenly—one, indeed, was ejected—astrally if not physically.

But, taken by and large, it was a most enjoyable little affair, and, as our country contemporaries have it, a pleasant time was had by all, even including the young gentlemen whose departure was taken by request.

The meeting was opened by Miss Agnes E. Marsland, president of the Esoteric center. Miss Marsland is a buxom lady of pleasing mien, who might have appeared more at home in black silk than in the flowing white gown, embroidered with gilt, which she affected. Also she was either ill at ease or else might profit by some lessons in elocution.

Her speech was delivered, however, with such patent good feeling for all the world, that everybody felt much more at home—even if they couldn't hear what she was saying.

In a modest little way she told about the center, introduced the estimable guru, stuttered a little and finally resigned the floor to Dr. Sarak.

Dr. Sarak, besides being a most wonderful man—he admitted as much last night—has a most striking appearance.

A miniature "Blackie Daw."

Remember the pictures of Blackie Daw that appeared with George Randolph Chester's "Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford" stories? Well, that's the doctor—only he's a miniature edition, about five feet six, and, if possible, rather more emaciated than Blackie. In fact, he's so thin that at first one gets the impression that he has been shot through both cheeks. Upon inspection, however, the scars prove to be of natural origin.

The doctor wore dinner clothes, a white waistcoat, an amazingly tall stand-up collar and a very wonderful blue satin tie.

He also sported a white, green and gold decoration, suspended around his neck by a red and black ribbon, and wore a most ornate coronet on

STRIKER KILLED BY GAS

"Tired of Living," Says Note By Union Car Man's Side.

With a note in which he said he was "tired of living," and a picture of a girl at his side, John A. Spangler, twenty-two years old, a striking motorman of the Fourth and half street line, was found dead from illuminating gas in his room at 342 McLean avenue southwest early today.

The body was found by the landlady, who detected the odor of gas shortly before 7 o'clock. She found him lying on the bed half dressed, with two jets turned on. The note read:

"Two a. m., March 31, 1917. Dear People: Don't think hard of me. I am tired of living. I said I was going to do this. I hold my little girl, so here I am. Goodbye."

The picture of the girl found by his side, it was supposed by the police, was the girl referred to in the note. Spangler's relatives live at Arlington, Va. He had been on the cars here for about fourteen months.

Coroner Nevitt issued a certificate of suicide.

RUSSIA BREAKING UP?

Berlin Reports Separatist Movements Among Slavs.

BERLIN (via wireless), March 31.—New Russia is threatened with disintegration into a number of separate provinces, according to word reaching here today from Stockholm.

Kieff has started a separatist movement, it was stated; the situation in Turkestan is likely to develop a separate principality there.

STONE TO FIGHT ANY WAR MOVE

Senator Makes It Clear He Will Support Cause When Die Is Cast.

WILL OPPOSE DECLARATION

Missourian Is Confident War Action Will Come and Won't Seek Delay.

"I am opposed to going to war and I shall vote against it. But I have no doubt what the result in Congress will be, and once we are in war, I shall do whatever I can to see that it is fought to a finish."

This was the declaration of Senator William J. Stone, Chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate, in discussing the outlook for action on a war resolution at the outset of the extra session.

"I do not believe this country should go to war," said the Senator. "I believe it will be a mistake. I have not changed the position I occupied when the armed neutrality bill was up, a hair's breadth. On the other hand, I am daily more and more confirmed in the opinion I held then."

Would Fight to Finish.

"But if Congress decides on war, then no one will support it more fully than I. If we go into the war, we must go in, as Roosevelt says, and spare neither money nor men to fight to a finish."

"What would you consider a finish?"

"I would fight until Germany is licked."

Senator Stone believes that if war comes troops must be organized and sent abroad, and he made it clear he had no doubt war was to be soon at hand. He said he did not know at first hand what the President would recommend. He has not consulted the President or been consulted by him.

Will Not Seek Delay.

So far as he is concerned, Senator Stone will not seek to delay action by Congress. He will call a meeting of the Foreign Relations Committee on the same afternoon the President speaks to both Houses.

"Will you address the Senate in opposition to a war resolution?"

"I expect to state my views, and when I have done so I will be ready to vote. I have no question in my own mind what the result will be."

The recommendations of the President, Senator Stone predicts, will be to the fact that once this country is in war, Congress will be for a most vigorous policy.

Senator Stone was asked whether he believed if the United States got into the war, that once this country is in war, Congress will be for a most vigorous policy.

Means Revolution in Policy.

"One of the things that weighs most on my mind in this matter," he said, "is that if the United States gets into this war, it will then be involved in European politics. It will depart from the policy so long and ably advocated by many of our great statesmen, beginning with Washington. We are, as we have with respect to Mexico, what is to be the form of the government of Germany? Are we to be as successful in taking a hand in the internal affairs of European nations as we have been in Mexico? It represents a complete revolution in our policy and that is one of the reasons I am against it."

The authoritative first-hand statement of Senator Stone on the proposed war resolution makes it clear that he will not be in charge of the measure on the floor of the Senate. In fact, it is not certain who will have charge of the armed neutrality bill cannot will take charge of a war resolution, for he has already said he believed in a policy of continued armed neutrality. One suggestion is that Senator John Sharp, William Hughes, who has all along been strongly anti-German and in favor of war, will take charge of the resolution.

Senator Stone said today he did not know whether the resolution would go to House or Senate first.

OKLAHOMA POLL FOR WAR

Senator Owen Receives Word of Strong Anti-Pacifist Sentiment.

Oklahoma generally regarded as one of the pacifist States, is for war with Germany at once, and with all the strength of which the United States is capable, to judge from replies from the State which have poured into the office of Senator Robert L. Owen, as a result of his referendum.

Mr. Owen did not address individuals, but, instead, organizations in towns. Mass meetings were held as a result of his inquiry, and in no instance did any meeting go on record against a firm policy with Germany.

For the most part they recorded themselves as favoring an immediate declaration of war, or at least a declaration that war with Germany existed.

GERMANS TRY NEW "FLOUR"

BERLIN, March 31.—German chemists have discovered a method for making a flour substitute out of linden and beech buds. They claim that the substitute has the nutritive value of barley flour, with four times its fat percentage.

MERGER SEEN IN GAS STOCK RISE

Shares of Georgetown Company
Jump From 110 to 120 on Washington Market.

EARLY ACTION PREDICTED

Washington Company Holds
More Than Half Stock of Georgetown Company.

Prospects for the much-discussed merger of the Washington and Georgetown Gas companies are brighter today than at any time since negotiations were begun, according to people closely identified with the interests of the two companies.

The sharp rise in the bid price of Georgetown Gas stock Thursday, from 110 to 120, following as it does the jump in Washington Gas stock several weeks ago, is pointed to by many as an indication that an early consummation of the merger is probable.

It is known that the Washington Gas Light Company holds approximately 3,000 of the 5,000 shares of stock of the Georgetown company. It is also known that options have been obtained on practically all the remaining 2,000 shares of minority stock, and it is understood that the minority holders are all in favor of the merger.

Price Likely To Go Up.

While it is not known at what price it is proposed to take over the minority stock of the Georgetown company, the fact that 120 was bid for the stock yesterday, without any being offered, indicates that the merger price will be considerably in excess of this figure.

The tentative valuation of the Georgetown company has been placed at approximately $1,300,000, exclusive of the Georgetown Gas Light Company of Montgomery county, which the Georgetown company owns, and which is valued at $500,000. This would bring the total book value up to $1,800,000, without allowing for intangible values.

Deducting from this bonds and certificates of indebtedness outstanding approximately $600,000, a book value of around $1,200,000 is left to apply to the 5,000 shares of stock. Par value of this stock is $25 a share, making up the original capitalization of the company $125,000.

Both Issues Strengthened.

The fact that the shares of both companies have developed strength as a result of the prospects for a merger is pointed to by those interested as an indication of the benefits which would result from such a merger to all parties concerned.

The people of Georgetown would benefit materially, they say, because the merger would result in a uniform price of gas to all consumers in the District. It is obvious, they say, that the Washington company, which at present can make cheaper gas than the smaller Georgetown company, could further reduce the cost of production if the entire gas output for the District were made from its plants. Increased output, without proportionate increase in production cost, is the reason the interested parties refer to the probable result of the proposed merger.

POSTMASTERS TO STAY

Executive Order. Placing Them in Civil Service, Cares for Incumbents.

Postmaster General Burleson today officially gave out President Wilson's executive order placing first, second and third class postmasterships under the civil service.

Coincidentally, he announced that present incumbents who are "rendering good service and who continue to administer the affairs of their offices with ability" will not be "disturbed."

At the same time, he stated, enforcement of postal regulations will, from now on, be "more exacting."

Prediction that the entire postal service will "in the near future" be legislated under the civil service was made by the First Assistant Postmaster General in an appended statement.

MAJOR GENERAL AT 35

Sir Sam Hughes' Son Heads New Canadian Division.

OTTAWA, March 31.—Word was received here that Brig. Gen. Garnet Hughes, only son of Sir Sam Hughes, has accepted the offer of the war office and the Canadian government to take command of the Fifth Canadian division, now being organized in England.

He has been promoted to be major general and was transferred from his position with the First division on the understanding that the Fifth division is to be a "fighting" division and not merely a reserve division in France.

The new major general is only thirty-five years old. He went overseas as a colonel in command of one of the battalions in the first contingent.

WAR CONTRACTS EXPIRE

Manufacturers of Supplies for Allies Ready to Shut Down.

NEW YORK, March 31.—Hundreds of millions of dollars' worth of contracts for the manufacture in this country of shells for the allies expired today.

The Westinghouse Electric, Remington Arms, Midvale Steel, Winchester Arms, Bethlehem Steel, and American Locomotive companies still have some light and heavy ordnance work to complete, but many mushroom plants were ready to close their doors.

HANG OUT YOUR FLAG

Every day will be Flag Day in Washington from now on. The demand for the Stars and Stripes has been unprecedented. A canvass of the stores this morning by The Times found flag departments crowded and managers telegraphing for additions to their stocks. The whole city is going to blossom with the national colors and if you have not bought a flag to put outside your house or apartment you are going to be in the minority.

It isn't too late to get one right now. Go and buy one at once and hang it on the outer wall.

HANG OUT YOUR FLAG

MANY INFER BERLIN HOLDS WAR BEGUN

State Dept. Officials Regard
Zimmermann Speech As Tightening Tension.

That the Berlin Government already recognizes the existence of a state of war between the United States and Germany is an inference, which, in the opinion of high officials of the State Department, might be placed on the speech of Herr von Zimmermann, the German foreign minister, in the Reichstag yesterday.

This view of the Zimmermann speech, which appeared to be shared in many official quarters, and the receipt of official news of the torpedoing of two more merchant ships with Americans on board, gave an added twist to the tension felt throughout Washington in anticipation of President Wilson's "war message" to Congress.

According to reports made to the White House today by Administration leaders, the House may be organized in time for the President to appear before Congress Monday, although it is thought more likely that he will go Tuesday.

Solemn Catech War Fever.

Members of the House and Senate, returning today to Washington for the extra session, appear to have caught the virus of a war fever that has swept throughout the country.

Likelihood of the President, in his address, disclosing additional facts about the German intrigues increased today when high officials of the State Department, commenting on the Zimmermann speech declared significantly that the Administration was prepared to prove that Germany, as far back as the middle of last January knew that a break with the United States was inevitable if Germany resumed unrestricted submarine warfare on merchant ships.

"Not only are we prepared to prove this," declared a high official of the department, "but we are prepared to show that Count von Bernstorff, the former German ambassador to this country, appreciated the situation fully and tried to prevent it."

Regards War As Begun.

In his speech before the Reichstag yesterday Minister Zimmermann was quoted as charging the United States with having started the war by severing diplomatic relations. This is the first intimation from German sources that Berlin considers the war actually in progress. Diplomatic relations were severed February 3.

The position of the American Government, on the contrary, will probably be that war has been in existence only since March 18, when German submarines sank three American steamers, and thereby caused the death of twelve or fifteen American citizens.

"Zimmermann's assertion," said the State Department official, quoted above, "that the United States, between the time that the German submarine decree was delivered to this Government and the time that President Wilson's message was received, was in a state of war with Germany, is not correct."

DENY INSULTING WHITLOCK

Germans Say He Still Has Full Diplomatic Rights in Belgium.

AMSTERDAM, March 31.—Official denial was received from Berlin today that the German government had ever violated the diplomatic immunity of American Minister Brand Whitlock, at Brussels. It was asserted that Whitlock will continue to be treated as a minister until he leaves, and that all obligations to the American relief commission will be strictly observed.

A Berlin announcement received today, asserted that Mr. Whitlock, with the American workers in the Belgian relief commission, would leave shortly on a special train for Switzerland.

SWISS REFUSE RUSS PRAISE.

BERNE, Switzerland, March 31.—The Swiss national council today rejected, by a vote of 77 to 24, a Socialist resolution to congratulate the new Russian government.

THOUSANDS OF ANTI-PACIFISTS ON WAY HERE

Legion Forming in New York,
Thousands Strong, for Demonstrations Monday.

WANT TO SHOW PATRIOTISM

Tumulty Brands Henry A. Wise
Wood "Four-Flusher" for Attack on Cabinet.

While pacifists of the Emergency Peace Federation have opened headquarters in Washington and are busy with plans for the demonstration at the Capitol Monday, a group of anti-pacifists are organizing in New York, and will descend upon the Capital City Monday, according to reports, many thousands strong.

The anti-pacifists are organizing under the name of "The Pilgrimage of Patriotism," and the following constitute the committee in charge: Wendell T. Bush, James T. Shetwell, N. G. Nichols, W. G. Nichols, C. Stowell, Franklin H. Giddings, Waldemar A. Chadbourne, and J. L. Moon. Trains will leave Pennsylvania station, in New York, Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

Would Show Loyalty.

Though the plan to invade the Capital was a spontaneous reaction of the pacifists' plan to stage a demonstration, it is stated, the principal object of the anti-pacifists is to show President Wilson there are more who will stand by him than he says there are those who will oppose any warlike moves.

It is stated this will not be a counter-demonstration. But as each of the invading armies plan to march on the Capitol, where the ears of all Congressmen will be filled with the talk of peace and war, it is possible there will be some clashes on Capitol Hill Monday.

Legislative Action.

While these plans were going ahead means of suppressing "extremism" are being made, the situation is to be a subject for legislative action at the extraordinary session of Congress.

While the White House is not yet prepared to stand sponsor for measures to muzzle these malefactors, Administration officials are agreed at the point of frank condemnation of both the rabid pacifists and that class which is bitterly criticizing President Wilson's preparedness plans as inadequate.

Speaking of the suggestion of Henry A. Wise Wood, toastmaster at the Aero Club dinner in New York last night, urging the removal of Secretaries of the Navy and War, Joseph P. Tumulty, Secretary to President Wilson, said:

Call Him Four-Flusher.

"He's a 'four-flusher,' and you can quote me on that, as that type of extremists do more harm than any other kind."

Mr. Tumulty added that the sincerity of many pacifists was not doubted, and indicated that there was no resentment felt as to an honest expression of their views.

Members of Congress who are earnestly supporting the Administration and a number of department officials are casting about for the means of curbing what they characterize as "loose talk" and "reckless criticism."

They hope to devise a remedy that, at the same time, will not contravene the principle of "free speech."

One Precaution.

One of the precautions taken to prevent anti-Administration demonstrations will be the suppression of pacifist parades. State and municipal authorities have been given the tip to follow the example of the National Capital's police head whenever such action is consistent with "American rights."

The action of the Government will be directly vigorously against propaganda approaching seditious acts and utterances to the slightest degree. Already Department of Justice agents are working along this line, but more authority to cope with certain conditions is needed.

It was stated by a high official today that the right of free speech and honest criticism is not in jeopardy, but there will be a strict check on those who seek to incite anti-American or anti-Administration sentiment for sinister reasons.

Going Straight Ahead.

Meanwhile, unmindful of plans of their opponents, the anti-pacifists, the Emergency Peace Federation, of New York, will go straight ahead with their demonstrations. Louis F. Lochner, who is directing the demonstration to be held Monday that even a declaration of war by Congress will not cause them to cease their efforts for peace, but will prove a further incentive for them to keep fighting.
